

Learning More about Hemorrhoid and Pregnancy

After finding out that you are pregnant, aside from the excitement, you are also getting quite concerned with the relation between hemorrhoid and being pregnant. You would not want to worry yourself in dealing with swollen veins for your rectal region, especially when you want to deliver the baby in a normal process.

- Your worries have basis because pregnant women are susceptible in developing the condition.
- This can be dealt with accordingly and can disappear months after you have given birth.
- You can help cure it through balanced diet and exercise.
- How would you know if the condition needs to be referred to a specialist already?
- There are times when the pain is tolerable, but there are also times when it becomes too much.
- The pain could be dealt with through cold soaks and compresses.
- You have to make sure that you don't take any medicines at this point without telling your doctor.
- You have to check with an expert though if the appearance of the piles is purplish and if it is bleeding profusely.

To give you more information about hemorrhoid and pregnancy, here are some of the basic steps that you can follow if you encounter this problem while you are expecting to deliver a baby. These will help get rid or relieve you from the pain, alleviate the swelling and may also help in healing the piles.

- When using toilet tissues in wiping away the affected area, make sure that the material is unscented and white.
- The least thing that you would want to experience at this point is to get it irritated because when this happens, this will become more intolerable.
- You can also use wipes in this case, that are softer than regular tissues.
- There are women who favor using wipes dabbed with witch hazel or baby oil.
- The effect can be relaxing, especially on the area the location where the pain is coming from.

You can Also Deal With this by Means of Hot and Cold Shrink

You can opt to do a Sitz bath using lukewarm water for 20 minutes or so. This can be done two or three times a day. You can then sit on an ice pack, which is covered on a towel after you tend to be done with bathing.

- Is also essential that you develop a sitting technique if you have to discharge on the toilet.
- You must not lay on it for too long because this might cause straining that can lead for the situation in order to worsen.

With Your Situation, You is Only Able to Resort to Mild Exercises

It will help to take a brisk walk for around 30 minutes, three times a week. If you happen to be on the last quarter of one's pregnancy, ask your doctor's advice in the event that you can continue with the exercise or even if they can recommend other exercises to suit your condition.
